

IPTV

No more Isidingo. Hooray!

So SABC sucks donkey balls, right? DSTV is too expensive and MNET isn't much less. So what do you do? Occupy yourself on Youtube.com all night, every night, watching crappy low-res videos of other people's children falling down? Or is there a high-definition alternative where you choose the programming yourself, that is broadcast directly to your television via your internet connection? Using proprietary technology based on the new H.264 compression standard, Matrixstream have paved the way for the broadcast of low-bandwidth television signals. Of course, low to other countries is not low to us – a whopping 1.5mbps connection is required to receive DVD-quality content via Matrixstream's box. RTBC www.matrixstream.com

A Hurricane Waterfall

Hurricane Satellite 5.1 Lifestyle Speaker System

Waterfall Audio's new Hurricane Satellite 5.1 lifestyle surround sound system, perfectly match the many designs of new generation flat panel televisions due to its ultra flat "on wall" concept. These ultra slim speakers will reveal every detail of your favourite music and movies. Available with a dark grey or white grill, the hurricane satellites come with a full range of accessories to meet your personal requirements. Numerous configurations within the Waterfall Audio range, allows you to be in control of the lifestyle you want.

R29,995 www.audiomania.co.za